DON'S PICKS:

Hello again. As some of you know the Longmuir Family went away to Aruba at the beginning of January. I like trips when there is something to learn. And in Aruba I learned two things. When they say it never rains in Aruba...their lying. It rained seven days straight with the odd sunny break. Jen and I were in luck as we were as white as Tom Cruise in Interview with A Vampire. It didn't take much sun to burn us. The second thing I learned was stay away from the banana boats. They look like fun until you're the one out there in the ocean trying to hang on.

But anyways I told Jen that I liked an island vacation so much that I want to go again. Like Ireland or Scotland -- somewhere where there are no snakes and the most dangerous thing you can run into is an irate soccer fan.

Needless to say I did a lot of reading. I read Elizabeth Blooms 'See Isabelle Run'. It's the first novel for Beth Saulnier under this pen name. And it was really well done. "Give'em Hell Isabelle" is left at the altar. Does she take this lying down? No she invites everyone in the church to the reception hall and continues to party. But now reality strikes. She's jobless. Friendless. Husbandless. And has the brand new apartment to pay for. She is offered a job with a glamour magazine and jumps at the opportunity - only the person who had the job before her was killed. Is it possible that once you leave this company, you never come back?

See Isabelle Run will be published March 1st 2005.

Now let me introduce to Kate White's novel, "Til Death Do Us Part". Her character is Bailey Weggins, a true crime writer who always finds herself mixed up in trouble. The novel starts with two of five bridesmaids already dead. Bailey has mixed feelings about the bridezilla, who was Bailey's roommate in college and now has become a Martha Stewart- like media star. But Bailey's troubles don't end there. As bridesmaids keep turning up dead, Bailey doesn't have to remind herself she was a bridesmaid at that wedding as well....

I really enjoyed "Til Death Do Us Part" but Jen said that was enough of reading these trendy mysteries when I started folding my dinner napkin into a stork.

'Til Death Do Us Part: First edition hardcover of the third book in the Bailey Wiggins series. $20.00

A Body to Die For: First edition hardcover of the second book in the Bailey Wiggins series. $20.00

AFTER HOURS:

On Thursday January 20, 2005 we hosted our first Book Club meeting at 7 p.m. at the store. We reviewed Vicki Delany's Whiteout. Having Ms. Delany at the meeting to read and answer our questions was awesome. I want to thank Ms. Delany for coming to our meeting. And I also would like to thank Janet Costello for leading our book club meeting. About fifteen people showed up -- which was a really nice turn out for the first meeting. For the month of February, we agreed to read Rick Mofina's 'Be Mine.' We are presently sold out of that novel but more are on order. The date of the next book club is February 17th 2005 at 7:00 p.m. at the store. Hope you can make it out.

As a final note, we would like to ask anyone on our mailing list if they would prefer to receive the newsletter via email rather than by mail. Please contact us by phone or by email and let us know -- then when can send out the newsletter electronically rather than in paper format.

Thanks again, Don Longmuir
